Dear Hiring Manager

I recently noticed a Computer Engineer position that your Company advertised on dayjob.com. I realized that you are in need of an experience computer software engineer with a minimum of a year experience. I have Superior knowledge of computer systems, design and analytical projects, along with first-hand experience with all phases of product development life cycle. I am sure that my knowledge and experiences make me a good candidate for this position.

I am an experienced programmer who has extensive knowledge of agreed technology standards and who is familiar with modern build practices. I always keep an eye on what is going on in the software world and am not afraid to try out new approaches or ideas to solve age old problems. On a personal level, although I am very confident in my own abilities, I am keen to learn and not shy to ask for advice when I have to. My key skills include, but are not limited to;

- Creating and maintaining beautiful clean code that creates cutting edge interfaces for high profile websites.
- Coming up with next-generation, cutting-edge and innovative solutions to seemingly intractable problems.
- Developing existing code.

I am enclosing my resume, which outlines my academic achievements and experience providing technical support while working at the Ryder System.

I would appreciate the opportunity to discuss available opportunities with you and to provide further information on my candidacy. I can be reached any time via my cell phone, or by email. Thank you for considering this request. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,

Tom Abbey
