Abstract

Abstract: The number of research publications are increasing dramatically, but it's impossible for researchers to read and process those information in time. So, we need a new communication tool to disseminate our research findings rather than the conventional publishing method. An effective tool for expanding your online presence is to create Audio/Video slides from your own published papers. It is the easiest way to communicate with a wider audience in your subject area and provide another avenue for your research output discovery. This presentation will provide various techniques on how to create an Audio/Video slides for improving your research impact and visibility.

Effective Strategies for Increasing Citation Frequency

Journal Reputation and Impact: publishing a paper in a journal based on disciplinary reputation or with a high impact factor is the most well known way of getting your paper cited. But there are many other things a scholar can do to promote his or her work and make it easy for others to find.

Utilize Open Access Tools: Open Access journals tend to be cited more than non open access. Deposit your paper in a repository such as Scholars Archive here on campus or a disciplinary repository. Share your detailed research data in a repository.

Standardize Identifying Info: try to use the same name throughout your career as well as the name of your affiliated institution. Using common "official" names will allow for consistency and easy retrieval of your work by author or affiliation.

Bring Colleagues on Board: team-authored articles are cited more frequently, as does publishing with international authors. Working cross-or inter-disciplinarily helps as well.

Beef Up That Paper: use more references, publish a longer paper. Also papers which are published elsewhere after having been rejected are cited more frequently.

Beyond Peer-Reviewed Original Research: Write a review paper. Present a working paper. Write and disseminate web-based tutorials on your topic.

Search Optimization: use keywords in the abstract and assign them to the manuscript. Use descriptive titles that utilize the obvious terms searchers would use to look for your topic, avoiding questions in the title. Select a journal that is indexed in the key library databases for your field.

Market Yourself: create a key phrase that describes your research career and use it. Update your professional web page and publication lists frequently. Link to your latest and greatest article in your professional email signature file.

Utilize Social Media: Use author profiles such as ResearcherID and ORCID. Contribute to Wikipedia, start a blog and/or podcast, join academic social media sites.

What is AudioSlides?

- AudioSlides is short, webcast-style presentations that let authors present their research in their own words.
- More than 75% of Elsevier's journals – close to 1500 titles – support AudioSlides.

Will AudioSlides increase my article downloads?

- There is a correlation between AudioSlides and article usage, with articles that have accompanying AudioSlides presentations being read more. While it's difficult to show the direct effect of the AudioSlides on usage, articles with AudioSlides typically have substantially more downloads and views than similar articles without AudioSlides – as many as 50% more! We observed that this increase in usage is particularly strong when authors actively use their AudioSlides presentations to promote their work on other websites or social media. The effort can really pay off!

Highlights

- We quantified barred plumage in Old World parasitic cuckoos and sympatric raptors.
- We test whether distribution overlap predicts similarity in barred plumage.
- Cuckoos match sympatric raptors and similarity is rarely influenced by habitat.
- There is no match for any aspect of patterning in cuckoos and allopatric raptors.
- This conforms to Batesian mimicry and cuckoo–hawk mimicry may be widespread.

A fundamental principle of Batesian mimicry is that it pays to look like a local harmful species that is recognizable to other local species (receivers). Mimicking an allopatric

THEORETICAL RESULTS

By using concepts of continuum mechanics we first disclose conditions necessary for a robot with a lower limited turning radius and traveling at a given speed to be capable of border patrolling at the specified distance.

Under slight and partly unavoidable enhancement of these necessary conditions, we show that the proposed navigation law has full ability to cope with the problem: it asymptotically drives the robot at the desired distance $\{d(t) \xrightarrow{t \rightarrow \infty} d_*, d(t) \xrightarrow{t \rightarrow 0} 0 \text{ as } z \rightarrow \infty\}$ and respects the safety margin $d(t) \geq d_{\text{safe}}$, $\forall t$. Explicit recommendations on properly tuning of the controller parameters are provided.

Elsevier top tips:

- Use our new template deck to guide your content
- Make the importance and relevance of your work clear right away, by putting it in context
- Tell your story using simple language: this could help researchers from other disciplines understand your article
- Break your story down into sections: summarize the findings, then talk about background, methods, results, conclusions and future work
- AudioSlides presentations can be up to 5 minutes long, so keep it short and simple
- Prepare your slides in advance, and practice before you start
- Check your AudioSlides presentation before publishing – there's no going back!
- Upload the presentation to YouTube and share the link across social media
- Watch your article's downloads clock up!

Getting started

- Follow the instructions in your email invitation to access the system
- You have maximum five minutes
- 4-12 slides is best
- The median number of slides people use is 9
- Remember, the viewing pane may be small; use images, not tables full of data

Video and Audio Posts

Another very effective tool for expanding your online brand is to create an audio or video broadcast on current topics in your subject area. These can be easily created with a well-equipped laptop computer and then posted to sites such as YouTube or iTunes for simple and free dissemination. Because these are a different media than text entries, they will typically show up separately in Search results providing yet another avenue for discovery.

Some suggestions to get started:

Using a webcam equipped laptop, create a 2-minute video discussing your most recent research or commenting on current topics in your field.

Post the video to YouTube and be sure to include as many relevant keywords as possible in your description. These will be found and returned in Search results.

Post links to your video -- or even better, embed the video itself in your personal website, blog and Facebook page using the simple tool that YouTube provides.

Tweet the link to your new video.

Record an audio podcast discussing your research or other current topics

Post your podcast to iTunes

Post links to your podcast in your personal website, blog and facebook page.

Tweet the link to your new podcast.

Recording a Lecture Using PowerPoint and Audio

Introduction

Instructors can record audio simultaneously while giving a PowerPoint-based presentation using its own built-in audio recorder. PowerPoint can record audio and slide timings while a lecture is in a slideshow, and can save this information in the presentation. Instructors can then deliver them to students via Webcourses or another website.

Recording Audio with PowerPoint

- > Connect the microphone to the computer.
- > Open desired presentation.
- > Click on 'Slideshow > Record Narration' to start the recording. Please note that you should not go backwards in slide progression during the recording.
- > Make sure the box next to "Link narrations to audio" does not have a check by it. PowerPoint will store the audio within the presentation itself, and will not make separate audio files.
- > Click on 'Set Microphone Levels'. Speak into the microphone as you would use it normally, and the program will automatically

Record a slide show with narration, ink, and slide timings

1. When you record a narration, you run through the presentation and record each slide. You can pause and resume recording any time.
2. Ensure your microphone is set up and in working order prior to recording your slide show.
3. On the Slide Show tab, in the Set Up group, click Record Slide Show .
4. Select one of the following:
 - Start Recording from Beginning
 - Start Recording from Current Slide
5. In the Record Slide Show dialog box, select the Narrations and laser pointer check box, and if appropriate, select or deselect the Slide and animation timings check box.
6. Click Start Recording.
7. Tip: To pause the narration, in the Recording shortcut menu, click Pause. And to resume your narration, click Resume Recording.
8. To end your slide show recording, right click the slide, and then click End Show.
9. The recorded slide show timings are automatically saved and the slide show appears in Slide Sorter view with timings beneath each slide.

Add audio to your presentation

- You can add audio, such as music or narration to your PowerPoint presentation. To record and hear any audio, your computer must be equipped with a sound card, microphone, and speakers.

- HUMAN KINETICS JOURNALS: A header for the "JOURNAL OF AGING AND PHYSICAL ACTIVITY", described as "The Official Journal of the International Coalition for Aging and Physical Activity". It includes navigation links for "ABOUT", "SUBSCRIBE / RENEW", "CONTENTS", "FOR AUTHORS", "FOR EDITORS & REVIEWERS", and "SUPPORT".
- PubMed: A search interface with "PubMed" selected in a dropdown menu and "Advanced" search options.
- Iranian Journal of Public Health: A screenshot of an article page. The article title is "Impact of Article Page Count and Number of Authors on Citations in Disability Related Fields: A Systematic Review Article". The authors listed are Abubakar AHMED, Mastura ADAM, Norafida A. GHAFAR, Murtala MUHAMMAD, and Nader Ale EBRAHIM. The journal is published by Tehran University of Medical Sciences.
- JPBR (International Journal of Public Health Research): A header for the journal with navigation links for "HOME", "ABOUT", "LOGIN", "REGISTER", "ANNOUNCEMENTS", "CONGRESO CITURS", "JOURNAL CONTENT", "TUTORIALS - JPBREVIEW", and "GUIDELINES FOR A".
- ICAPA (International Coalition for Aging and Physical Activity): A logo with the tagline "HELPING THE WORLD AGE ACTIVELY".
- Other elements: A "Download PDF (843 KB)" button, a "Like HK Journals on Facebook" button, and a "Send to" dropdown menu.
